The Prohibitory Amendment.

Sunday a week ago an agent of the brewery interests of Missouri was in Jasper for the purpose of placing advertising matter in this paper to aid in the defeat of the proposed statewide prohibition amendment to the constitution of Missouri. The matter was a carefully written argument against the amendment and was headed "Statewide Prohibition in Missouri," with the following sub-heads: "The Square Deal," "Home Rule in Missouri" and "Consider the Cost."

We don't make a practice of refusing advertising that pays as good rates as the brewers are willing to pay—this gentleman told us we could name our figure—but we do not propose to prostitute the columns of this paper to the liquor interests if we know it, any more than we will print news of the ugly side of life that is occasionally brought to our notice, and our readers know we do not do that.

The brewers pleading for "A Square Deal!" A square deal for whom? For the boys and girls, wives, mothers, honest men and happy homes of this country, or for a business that spreads sorrow and destruction equal to the European war?

The brewers want "Home Rule in Missouri!" But they don't want the "Home" to rule in Missouri. What they mean and what they know is the truth is that Missouri homes have pushed the saloon out of the rural districts into half a dozen of the cities, and they want the people from the country to quit fighting them, and allow them to continue to grow fat by debauching the poor and ignorant element of the populated centers, and leave them where they can continue to send booze into dry territory.

And then they tell the taxpayers to "Consider the Cost." If the taxpayers of this state will consider the cost of paying police departments, paying court expenses, running jails and poor farms and a thousand other things the saloon makes the taxpayers pay for, they will put the Missouri saloon out of business November 7 by voting for the prohibitory amendment.

White, sisters of Mr. Cline motored out there, arriving just before death came. Miss Emma Cline, another sister, arrived from Kansas City. The funeral rites were performed in Pittsburg Cemetery.

CARYTOWN.

Mrs. EDITH TURNER.

There will be a church social and community meeting at Salem Church Thursday night, November 2, at 7.30, in the interest of the Third Amendment. C. H. Swift of Carthage will make an address on the subject. Everybody invited. Let's have a big meeting. A lunch of sandwiches, pie and coffee will be served without charge. All the ladies in the community are expected to help with the lunch.

The county Sunday School convention last Tuesday was good and a large crowd attended. Salem was well represented by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mathews, Bessie and Alice Templin, Mrs. Estey, Mrs. Turner, Kenneth Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Karls, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gresham, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brock.

Ivan Blaize, his grandmother Mrs. Ivers, Mr. Conrad and a friend of his that came with him from Nebraska, took dinner one day last week at his father's, Jim Blaize.

Miss Helen Elliott and Miss Louise Brummett gave a Hallowe'en social Saturday night and invited a number of the young people. They report a jolly good time. Refreshments were served consisting of oyster stew, celery and pickles.

The ladies in old Missouri are not allowed to vote, but they can get out after night and put enough shot into a chicken thief so that he didn't get any rest until he went to a physician and had them taken out.

The Salem Aid Society will not meet this week.

There were 78 present at Salem Sunday School Sunday. The convention was well attended Sunday afternoon and there were some good speeches by Mrs. C. W. Bigger, Joseph Walker and Rev. C. H. Swift from Carthage.

The Salem Aid Society met last Thursday at Mrs. V. Mathews'. Those present were Mesdames Carter, Bull, Alexander, Blauth, D. Mathews and Turner.

The protracted meeting is still in progress at the Brethren church and will continue this week. Their love feast will be Saturday night, November 11, at 5 o'clock.

Band practice Friday night. Bernice Boyd spent Sunday with home folks.

Making a Start With Poultry

The safest way for those about to make their first attempt at poultry raising, is to start in a small way with a few chickens. Then you can learn the business thoroughly as you go along. Spring or early summer is the best time to build the houses. This gives them time to dry out during the hot days. Then the cement floors and foundation walls are sure to be thoroughly dried out before winter. Chickens do not thrive in a damp house. We have all the material that you require for poultry houses—have helped many others get started—let us help you. Put up your poultry house now. It is the best time of the year.
